

English Language Day Celebration

Department of Arts and Humanities of DPG Degree College organized an event on to celebrate English Language Day on 26, April 2023. It was well attended by a number of students along with Dr Priya Shukla, Head of the Department. It was also attended by the Principal of the College, Dr S.S. Boken and Registrar, Mr Ashok Gogia. The event was organized with the objective of promoting and encouraging the use of English language among the students. The theme for this year's celebration was 'English as a Global Language'. The event started with the inauguration ceremony, which was graced by the HoD, professors, and students. Ms Saloni Parmar, the host, gave the welcome speech, followed by a brief introduction about the significance of the day. The event continued with various activities and competitions for the students. All the participants were divided into 2 teams; 'Team A' and 'Team B'.

Students participating in the competition 'Tongue Twisters'. All the students took participation in various activities very enthusiastically.

The first competition was 'Tongue Twisters'. The competition aimed to improve the participants' pronunciation, enunciation, and fluency, while also providing them with a fun and engaging activity, and it was judged by the English language teachers. Each participant had to come up with creative tongue twisters and perform them in front of the audience. The game began with a brief introduction by Mrs Pooja Soni, who explained the rules and objectives of the game. The participants were then called up on stage one by one to perform their tongue twisters. The participants were given a time limit of one minute to perform their tongue twister, and the audience was encouraged to participate and cheer them on.

A student of MA English participating in the game of ‘Dumb Charades’. Students had to make the audience guess the name of the movie and books only by gesturing.

The next competition for both the teams was ‘Dumb Charades’, led by Dr Vaishali Dahiya. Participants played the classic guessing game using only gestures and body language. The event was fun and engaging, with students enthusiastically guessing and acting out movie names, and book titles. Each member of the team was given a slip with a word or phrase that they had to act out, and they had to convey the meaning of the word without using any spoken words. The team members were given two minutes to guess the word or phrase correctly. The "Dumb Charades" event was a huge success, with students thoroughly enjoying themselves and showcasing their acting talents. It provided a platform for students to come together and bond over a fun activity. The organizers did a fantastic job, and the event was well-received by all. It was a great way to promote team spirit and creativity among students.

A game of ‘Guess the picture was played’ in which various pictures were shown to the students and options were given to choose the right one.

Right after that another game was played, 'Guess the picture', whose in charge was Ms Saloni Parmar. Participants were shown pictures of different tricky things like fruits and vegetables, musical instruments, and famous authors and they had to guess the name. The event was informative and entertaining, with students competing enthusiastically to win. The teams were shown a picture on a screen for a limited time, and they had to guess what it was.

Number of students participated in the activities. Respected Principal sir also joined the celebrations.

Lastly, 'Poster Making' competition was organized, in which the submitted posters of the participants were showcased and the top 3 were chosen by the our esteemed judges; Dr Amita Singh, Dr Priyanka, and Mrs Neha Sehrawat.

With the passing of time, judges, abided by their decision and declared Team B as a winning team. The event concluded with the prize distribution ceremony, where the winners of the competitions, Team B, were awarded certificates and prizes. However, the rest of the team participants were awarded a participation certificate. The principal
